Generals of the Union and the Confederacy

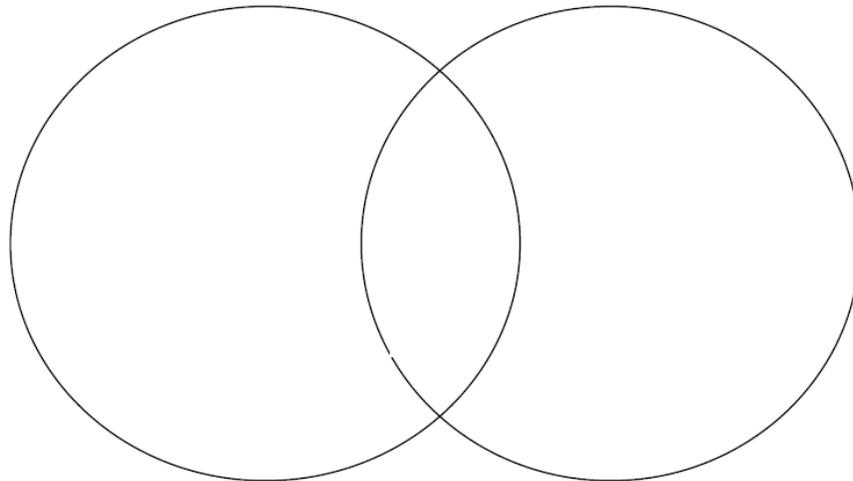

Venn Diagram Puzzle

For each question below, you will see two circles and two generals listed, one Union and one Confederate. You will notice that the circles overlap. In the space that overlaps, put all of the letters that are the same between the names of the two generals. Then, put the remaining letters for the general on the left in the left circle and the remaining letters for the general on the right in the right circle. For example, if you were comparing words, such as the words alphabet and alligator, it would look like this:

You will see that we used two a's in the center section because both words have two a's. We only used one l in the center section because the word alphabet only has one l, even though there are two l's in alligator.

1. Robert E. Lee Ulysses S. Grant

Race to Your Regiment

You choose to be either a Union soldier or a Confederate soldier. Your regiment did not have good intel and met a regiment from the opposing army unexpectedly. There were many wounded from both sides during the skirmish. Both sides retreated to care for their wounded and try to get better intel before moving on. You were separated from your regiment. You are hurrying to catch up, but they are moving as quickly as possible to get out of enemy territory. You are unfamiliar with the area and find that you lose your bearings at times and even have to cross areas where the enemy is marching. If you land on a space that has the opposing army's flag on it, you have to stop there and miss a turn. Who can be first to get back to their regiment and deliver any intel you were able to pick up as you were trying to get back.

What you need: game board, two markers, and a six-sided die or numbered spinner.

Print the board game and glue to the inside of an open file folder, lining up the board halves in the center.

How to play: There are many dangers along the way for the soldiers. See who can be the first to reach their regiment and deliver intel! Start at the skirmish site. Roll a single die and follow the directions below. Remember, if you land on a space that has the opposing army's flag on it, you have to stop and miss your next turn.

1. You are trying to catch up with the regiment, but you were stunned when you fell and hit your head, move ahead one space.
2. You need to move fast, but carefully, you are still disoriented. Move back one space.
3. You find some berries and an apple tree that miraculously still has a few apples on it. Eating will help your strength. Move ahead two spaces, as you thank God for his provision.
4. You come to a small stream but the water is cold. Move back two spaces as you detour to find a way to cross without getting wet.
5. You are getting weak. Stay where you are while you read from the small Bible you have in your pocket and pray for strength.
6. You fell asleep and realize that it was God's protection that kept you safe while you slept. You are stronger now. Move ahead 3 spaces to get back to your regiment.
