AUSTRALIA

Australia is the only
continent that is also a single country.

The Aboriginal
people lived in

Australia for a very long time.

This is a flag of the Aboriginal people.

The Aboriginal
people used
boomerangs and
many other tools
for hunting.

In 1770, Captain

James Cook was the first European to sail

along the east coast of Australia.

The ship Captain
Cook commanded
was called the Endeavor.

Scientist Sir Joseph
Banks sailed with Captain Cook and
studied many new plants they found.

In 1787, Arthur Phillip commanded the First Fleet, a group of
eleven ships sailing
to Australia.

Convicts were taken to Australia on the ships of the First Fleet to start a prison colony there.

The prison ships
could carry many people.

The HMS Charlotte

was one of six prison

ships in the fleet.

The HMS Supply was one of the ships that had cannons in case
enemies were seen on the voyage.

The First Fleet had many marines to guard the prisoners.

The colony of Australia grew and,
over time, became
the independent
country of Australia.

The Australian bush
is also known as the outback. Few of Australia's people
live in the outback.

Kangaroos are
marsupials that live in the outback.

Koalas also live in
the outback,
as do . . .

emus and many other animals.

Quokkas are small,
rare marsupials
that live on Rottnest Island.

The Australian Koolie
is a breed of working dog used on farms, stations, and many other areas.

The poppy is a special
flower used to honor
the sacrifices made
by those who died
fighting in wars.

They are used as part of

Remembrance Day

in Australia.

The Australian War

Memorial in

Canberra helps

people remember

those who have fought for freedom.

Some of the famous
landmarks you can find in Australia
include Ayers
Rock . . .

and the Sydney
Opera House in Sydney.

Since the weather

is warm at

Christmastime, some people have picnics

and barbecues.

Other times, people
get together for
big Christmas
dinners.
