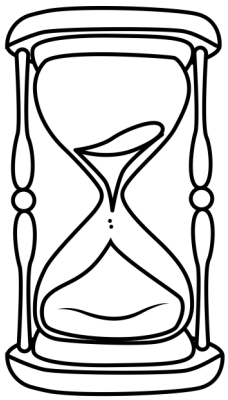
Dost thou love life? Then do not squander Time; for that's the Stuff Life is made of.



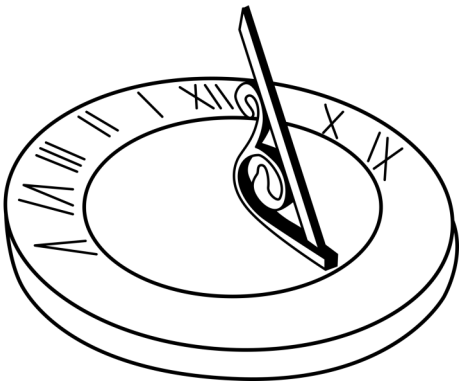
Dost thou love life? Then do not squander Time; for that's the Stuff Life is made of.

SAMPLE

Franklin Fact:

Benjamin Franklin was born on January 17, 1706, or, on the calendar used at the time, January 6, 1706, in Boston, Massachusetts. He was the tenth son of a family with seventeen children.

Lost Time is never found again.



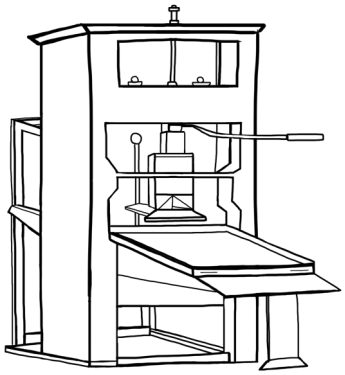
Lost Time is never found again.

SAMPLE

Franklin Fact:

Benjamin Franklin only had the chance to go to school until he was ten years old because his family could not afford to pay for it beyond that. He didn't stop learning, however. He read as much as he could and taught himself to write well and be an effective communicator by studying what others had written. He also taught himself basic algebra and geometry, navigation, grammar, logic, some science, and parts of several languages.

When you're good to others,
you're best to yourself.



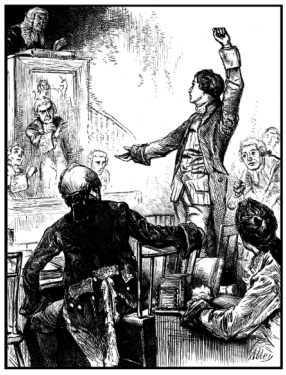
When you're good to others,
you're best to yourself.

SAMPLE

Franklin Fact:

Benjamin Franklin worked for his father and helped with candlemaking until he was 12, when he went to work for his brother as an apprentice printer. While apprenticing, he wrote articles using the name Silence Dogood. He left them for his brother to find by slipping them under the print shop door.

What you seem to be, be really.



What you seem to be, be really.

SAMPLE

Franklin Fact:

In 1775, Benjamin Franklin was appointed postmaster general of the colonies by the Continental Congress. Communication was critical, and he needed to set up a system for postal service quickly because the Revolutionary War had already started. He succeeded in setting up mail service from Portland, Maine, to Savannah, Georgia, and gave his pay to help wounded soldiers.