

A few years later,

they moved the business to

Indianapolis, Indiana.

She built a factory,
salon, and training
school.

She hired many women to sell
her beauty products
door-to-door.

She became one of the first female

African American

millionaires in the U.S.

She loved driving a Waverley electric
car that she owned.